Vranas Properties Extending Its Chicagoland Reach

Vranas Properties, the premier Chicago residential real estate brokerage, is expanding its forces. The young firm has recently brought Mark Raymo on board to serve as Senior Client Representative. Mark will be teaming up with Paul Vranas, Broker Owner, to further extend the exceptional services of Vranas Properties to an even broader client base.

Mark has been active in the real estate field since June 2003, acting as an investor/co-owner of a real estate development company based in Cincinnati, OH. He later moved to the Chicago area to pursue advanced education and expand his real estate expertise to incorporate the Chicagoland market. Mark is currently completing his MBA in Real Estate Finance and Investment at DePaul University, and has past experience in restaurant management. He is confident that his unique educational and professional background has prepared him to be an optimal contributor at Vranas. “Impeccable customer service and premium knowledge of the Chicago real estate market are two goals I strive for with every client interaction. My background has equipped me to reach these goals, all while fostering relationships of trust and mutual benefit,” Mark said.

The focus of Mark’s initial efforts at Vranas Properties will lie on client representation in the buying/selling of residential real estate. Mark is also excited to aid Vranas Properties in its growing acquisitions department, as the company aims to cultivate a real estate property investment portfolio. “I feel very fortunate to be working at something that I love, and to be working at it within a company that values business integrity and optimal client service as much as I do,” Mark concluded.
